ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONER

Beset by problems of affordability and availability, auto insurance continued to be troublesome from a regulatory point of view. Without the needed legislative reforms supported by the Department of Insurance, including revision of the No-Fault threshold and replacement of the existing assigned risk mechanism by a Joint Underwriting Association, the market remained unsettled, with the companies demanding huge rate increases and more and more drivers finding themselves shunted into the assigned risk plan despite good driving records. By year's end, at least one million New Jerseyans were insured through the assigned risk plan as the companies remained reluctant to write any significant amount of new business voluntarily.

Although overall insurance prices showed no sign of coming down, the best hope for at least an equitable re-distribution of auto insurance costs among policyholders lay in reform of the driver classification and territorial rating systems, which had been the subject of a nearly year-long public hearing by the Department of Insurance in 1979. The Department's actuarial staff devoted considerable time and effort in 1980 to an evaluation of the record of the hearing and planned to publish its report and order for changes in 1981.

In other areas of insurance regulation, the outlook was much brighter. The market for hospital malpractice insurance continued to perform exceptionally well; minimum standards were devised for individual health insurance policies, and a rating system for title insurance was put into place.

AUTO INSURANCE

The upward pressure on auto insurance rates remained unabated.

A continuing pattern of increasing losses in the New Jersey Automobile Insurance Plan, which is the assigned risk mechanism for the state, persuaded the commissioner to grant rate relief toward the end of the year. However, instead of a percentage increase, which would have imposed disproportionate burdens among policyholders, the commissioner approved an increase to be distributed across the board as a flat additional charge per car so that the NJAIP subsidy would be borne equally.

The additional charge was $30 per car for those with the minimum liability coverage plus another $4 for those with comprehensive coverage and $8 for those with collision coverage, making the total $42 for cars with full coverage. The charge was slightly higher for cars with increased limits of liability.

The charge applied to all cars, including those in the voluntary market and those in the assigned risk. It is expected to generate an additional $151 million in premium per year, which is 11.8 per cent of the total premium paid by New Jersey motorists.

Although the assigned risk mechanism was originally intended for drivers with poor records on the road and those with a high risk potential, the NJAIP has grown to a record number of about one million drivers, nearly one out of every four drivers in the state. Of these, about 800,000 have good records and, under ordinary market conditions, would obtain their insurance directly from the companies without having to go through the NJAIP.

However, for the last several years, the companies have been restricting their voluntary writings to the point where the voluntary market has virtually dried up. The companies' refusal to take on new business voluntarily is an expression of their dissatisfaction with the state's tight control of the rates.

Because there are good drivers in the plan, the NJAIP is not permitted its own rating system for the mandated liability coverages. Instead, it is required to use the rates approved for the Insurance Services Office, a rating bureau for about 200 companies. However, drivers with records of chargeable accidents and motor vehicle violations are heavily surcharged.

Despite the state's policy on NJAIP rates, the plan has regularly asked for approval of its own rating system, its most recent application requesting a rate increase of 78.5 per cent.

"It would not be fair," the commissioner said, "to approve a separate rating system for the NJAIP and put a great part of the burden of assigned risk losses on good drivers in the plan, who shouldn't be in the plan at all."

In addition to the problem of growing losses, the NJAIP created another problem by its refusal to provide retroactive coverage for hundreds of motorists whose brokers failed to process their applications. The NJAIP responded to the commissioner's order to provide the coverage by filing suit in Superior Court seeking a declaratory judgment to the effect that it is not obligated to provide the coverage and that the affected motorists did not, in fact, have coverage. In its court complaint, the NJAIP conceded that it was created under New Jersey law and "is operated under rules and regulations promulgated by the Department of Insurance."

It was the commissioner's position that the rules of the Plan itself place an assigned risk broker in the same relationship to the companies as their own agents with power to provide binding coverage on receipt of an application. The Plan's rules specifically state that a failure on the part of a broker shall not "prejudice the rights of an applicant."

In a brief filed with the Appellate Division, it was argued that the NJAIP's refusal to provide retroactive coverage "severely prejudices persons who have applied for coverage in good faith and who have paid the necessary deposit (to the brokers) in the expectation that it would be obtained." The brief added:

> Both the applicants themselves and persons who may have accrued claims against them as a consequence of their operation of automobiles in the belief that they were in fact insured have been left in a state of serious uncertainty concerning whether claims will be paid.

The Department of Insurance regards the suit as of major importance because the fundamental question to be determined is whether, in providing insurance mandated by the State Legislature, the companies are free to frustrate that mandate to the detriment of consumers who acted in good faith in trying to comply with the mandate.

During the year, one dispute over the use of the rates for auto insurance approved for the Insurance Services Office, a rating bureau, was settled, and another arose.

The settlement involved the Kemper Group of companies. Kemper agreed to rebate approximately $220,000 to 10,800 auto insurance policyholders, bringing to an end protracted litigation over its unauthorized use of the ISO rates while its own independent application for a rate increase was pending.

The new dispute involved the Allstate Insurance Company's adoption of the ISO rates as of July 1 after the commissioner directed it not to. The commissioner said:

> The currently approved ISO rates do not reflect the different and presumably lower loss and expense experience of Allstate. It would therefore be inappropriate for Allstate to use those rates, which would mean an unexamined 12 per cent, 22 million dollar rate hike for its customers, effective July 1.

Subsequently, Allstate obtained a Superior Court ruling permitting it to charge the higher ISO rates, but at the same time it was orderd to pay the difference between its old rates and the ISO rates into an interest-bearing trust account to be refunded to policyholders if the court eventually rules in the commissioner's favor.

MALPRACTICE INSURANCE

The malpractice market, for the most part, continued to improve.

In 1980, sixty-nine New Jersey hospitals that obtain their malpractice insurance from the Health Care Insurance Exchange shared in a $7.8 premium refund for the years 1976 and 1977. The refund was made possible by a continuing review of HCIE's experience under a retrospective rating plan.

The non-profit HCIE was formed in 1976 by the New Jersey Hospital Association in response to problems of availability and affordability that marked the private commercial market for malpractice.

A review of the history of malpractice in New Jersey shows that what has been done to create a stable marketplace is a remarkable success story. The dramatic turnabout in the pricing of malpractice insurance resulted from a number of factors, beginning with the Hospital Association's formation of the Health Care Insurance Exchange to provide coverage that had become difficult to obtain and expensive in the regular market.

Because of its limited capital, the Health Care Insurance Exchange could not by itself serve the market fully, and the commissioner responded by activating the New Jersey Medical Malpractice Reinsurance Association, authorized in a law that took effect January 30, 1976.

The Reinsurance Association comprises all insurance companies licensed in New Jersey to write personal injury and property damage liability insurance. There are about 280 companies in the Association. Under its plan of operation, the Health Care Insurance Exchange writes insurance for hospitals and reinsures a major part of each risk with the Association.

Although the hospitals did well in the matter of the pricing of malpractice insurance, the story was somewhat mixed for physicians and surgeons. For the second consecutive year, the premiums for malpractice insurance for the psychiatrists insured by the Vigilant Insurance Company went down as the commissioner approved a 20 per cent decrease. The previous year a 19.9 per cent decrease was approved. On the other hand, the premium for medical malpractice insurance for doctors insured by their own company, the Medical Inter-Insurance Exchange of New Jersey, which came down in 1979, went up in 1980.

The Commissioner approved a rate revision with an average 7.9 per cent increase for the company, which was formed under the sponsorship of the Medical Society of New Jersey in 1977. The rate revision was based on actuarial projections of trends in the year ahead. The new rates, despite the increases, will still be less on the average than they were two years ago because of an average 8.3 per cent reduction approved in 1979.

For the other major insurer of hospitals, the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Company, a rate decrease averaging 28 per cent was approved, reflecting the company's experience using a claims-made policy.

COMMERCIAL LINES DEREGULATION PROPOSED

Substantial deregulation of commercial lines insurance was recommended in a report to the Commissioner prepared by an Advisory Committee that had been studying the question of deregulation. The report was released at the annual convention of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners in New York.

The committee proposed enactment of legislation that would principally exempt "special risks" from the existing statutory obligation to obtain prior approval of the commissioner for rates and policy forms. Special risks were defined as those with an annual premium in excess of $10,000; those that are exotic, difficult to place or rate; and those for which there is no adequate market available among companies admitted to do business in New Jersey. The Department of Insurance would still retain regulatory oversight and carry out periodic inspections of the special risks market under the proposal.

Contrasting the need for regulation of personal lines of insurance with that of commercial lines, the committee stated that "personal lines by their very nature require a higher degree of regulation" because "it is the obligation of the regulator to protect groups who need protection." However, the committee added:

> Many commercial insureds are fully capable of protecting themselves. Their needs are known and large commercial insureds frequently have the capabilities and professional staff to satisfy them. Commercial insureds require flexibility to effectively negotiate both coverages and premiums.

The committee's report stressed that the recommended deregulation of commercial lines would free the Department of Insurance's professional and technical staff to devote more time and effort to the regulation of personal lines, such as automobile and homeowners insurance.

The report said:

> The Department of Insurance presently is obligated by statute to review and approve every rate and policy form used by licensed insurers for all coverages written for New Jersey risks. Extensive and often costly preparation is required of the applicant and the Department, to fulfill its mandated duties, must subject each filing to intense scrutiny. This system ads significantly to the cost of insurance because the expense of its maintenance is ultimately borne by both commercial insureds and the consumer.

Statistical support is required for rate filings and it is a difficult and time-consuming process to review and approve forms and any deviation. Further, many commercial risks are not subject to rate-making that is statistically and actuarially based because the loss experience and associated expenses are not, in the argot of the profession, 'credible'.

BLUE CROSS AND BLUE SHIELD

The first rate increase for Blue Shield (Medical-Surgical Plan of New Jersey) in more than three years was announced.

The increase affected most, but not all, categories of coverage for small group and direct payment subscribers to the Blue Shield Plan, which provides coverage for medical services in connection with hospitalization. It took effect January 1, 1981.

The increase, which varied among categories of coverage on the basis of the claims experience of each, averaged 12 per cent and will yield an additional $8.7 million in yearly premium.

The Commissioner informed Blue Cross that it was responsible for payment in full for the cost of hospital radiological services received by its subscribers. He denied a request by Blue Cross for a change in the method of payment that would have imposed a financial burden on subscribers. At the same time, he denied a request by Blue Shield that payment of radiologists for their professional services to hospital patients be made its responsibility rather than Blue Cross's.

The commissioner's rulings were made necessary by refusal of radiologists at 36 hospitals in New Jersey to accept reimbursement for their hospitals, although radiologists' fees are a part of the Blue Cross payments to hospitals. Instead, the radiologists at the 36 hospitals began billing patients directly for the full amount of their fees, contending that the Blue Cross payments were inadequate.

Radiologists at the remaining New Jersey hospitals continued the practice of accepting hospital reimbursements for Blue Cross patients as payment in full.

Responding to the action of the radiologists at the 36 hospitals, Blue Cross proposed that it pay directly to subscribers the amount now included in the Blue Cross hospital rate for radiological services at the 36 hospitals, leaving radiologists free to bill patients for the difference between the Blue Cross payment and the higher amount they believe their services are worth. It was this proposal that the commissioner rejected.

The problem of radiologist' fees began about five years ago when some radiologists, although accepting reimbursement, billed patients for the "balance-due." Protracted litigation followed and the Appellate Division of Superior Court ruled that once the radiologists accepted the Blue Cross payments they could not balance-due bill.

However, the radiologists at the 36 hospitals have since engaged in what the commissioner called "deliberate circumvention" of the court's decision by refusing to accept the Blue Cross payments and billing patients for the full amount of their services.

TITLE INSURANCE

The Commissioner approved a manual of rates and charges for use by the title insurance industry.

The manual was filed by the New Jersey Land Title Insurance Rating Bureau, which represents all 20 title insurance companies licensed to do business in New Jersey. The manual replaces an interim rating system that had been in effect in new Jersey since May 29, 1979. There are no substantive differences between the manual and the interim rating system except that the manual codifies the rules under which the title insurance industry will operate in the State.

The industry's first uniform financial and statistical reporting system, which is expected to develop an adequate data base for future analysis of rates and expenses, was also approved.

OTHER MATTERS

Minimum standards for individual health insurance policies affecting sales solicitation and rate filings became effective in October. However, the deadline for bringing policy forms into compliance was extended into the following year.

The regulations mandate minimum benefits that must be offered by the companies and place new controls on both companies and agents to eliminate abusive, "hard-sell" tactics—such as persuading insureds to buy duplicate coverage and making false or misleading statements—a source of complaints, especially from senior citizens.

The regulations also give the Department of Insurance greater control over rates, establishing procedures for determining whether benefits offered by a policy are reasonable in relation to the premium by providing for an annual review of the cost-benefit reasonableness and by setting acceptable loss ratios for particular kinds of coverage. The loss ratio reflects the amount of premium of a policy form that is paid out in benefits.

Another important thrust of the regulation is to identify and penalize the relatively few agents who engage in improper sales activities and to make the companies fully accountable for their agents' conduct.

Penalties for violations of the regulations range from maximum fines of $2,000 for each violation to suspension or revocation of the license of an insurance company, agent, broker, or solicitor. In addition, companies will be subject to an equivalent fine imposed on any of their agents for violations.

The Commissioner approved a new manual of rates for Workmen's Compensation filed by the Compensation Rating Bureau that increases premiums by $97 million, or about 18.5 per cent. The new manual reflects the substantial increases in benefits mandated by a reform act adopted unanimously by both houses of the legislature.

Among the increased benefits provided by the act are a weekly minimum benefit of $49, up from $15, and maximum benefit of $185, up from $156; a death benefit of $2,000, up from $750; an increase in the maximum duration of benefit payments from 300 weeks to 400 weeks for temporary total disability and from 550 weeks to 600 weeks for permanent partial disability.

The new manual of rates also provides new definitions of certain intangible elements to eliminate minor and nuisance claims and to restrict broadening of the law. For instance, payments for minor cuts, bruises, sprains, scars, and mild dermatitis and mild bronchitis are eliminated, and stronger proof to establish work-related cardiac disabilities is required.

The Legislature's unanimous adoption of the reform act reflected the support given to it by both labor and management, labor because of the increased benefits and management because of the elimination of minor claims and tightening up of claims.

A series of workshops was held in each of the state's 21 counties by the Division of Consumer Services to train representatives of senior citizens' organizations to teach their fellow members about health insurance. A teaching kit, developed to accompany the department's Booklet, "A SHOPPER'S GUIDE TO LIFE & HEALTH INSURANCE FOR SENIOR CITIZENS," was used at the workshops. The kit reinforced the concepts presented in the shopper's guide through transparencies with accompanying narration, discussion topics, a close examination of what policy clauses really say, and a quiz section.

The shopper's guide is a 32-page publication written in easy-to-read language. It is primarily intended to aid senior citizens in deciding whether they need private health insurance to fill the Medicare gaps and what kind of insurance they should buy.

ANNUAL REPORT — 1981
AUTO INSURANCE

In the absence of No-Fault reform, the rates for private passenger auto insurance continued to be subject to upward pressure. The industry projected a $270 million operating loss for 1981.

Late in the year, an across-the-board 12.6 per cent increase in premium rates was approved for all companies for both voluntary and assigned risk cars. The companies had asked for increases that ranged from about 14 per cent to 45 percent.

In approving the increase the commissioner said he was not making a final determination on the individual rate filings and that the increase would be regarded as interim relief until he had completed a proposed comprehensive inquiry into the methods used by the companies in computing auto insurance rates, specifically, the treatment of investment income as an offset in rates, the accuracy of reserves set up by the companies to pay for actual and prospective losses and the calculation of federal income taxes.

The 12.6 per cent increase was expected to yield an additional $180 million in annual premium.

The Allstate Insurance company returned about $27 million in premium refunds, including interest, to about a quarter of a million of its voluntary market policyholders.

Distribution of the refund culminated a protracted legal battle between Allstate and the Commissioner over its right to use the rates of the Insurance Services Office, a rating bureau, without his approval.

The dispute had its genesis in March, 1980 when Allstate announced its intention of joining ISO which, under New Jersey law, it has a right to join. The ISO, which has about 200 member companies, collects the claims and expense experience of those companies and uses it as the basis for developing a common rating system for use by each company.

Allstate announced early in June, 1980, that it would begin using the rates approved for ISO on July 1, 1980. The Commissioner, while not disputing Allstate's right to join the ISO, nevertheless directed the company not to use the ISO rates until such time as its own claims experience had been incorporated into ISO's and a new rate developed.

Allstate responded by bringing suit in the Appellate Division of Superior Court and obtained an injunction against the order, which permitted it to use the rates as of July 1, 1980, pending a determination of the suit on its merits.

The commissioner, supported by the Public Advocate, argued that Allstate's use of the ISO rates was subject to his prior approval. The Appellate Division eventually ruled in the commissioner's favor and ordered the company to return the overpayments to its policyholders.

The rights of policyholders who have to obtain their insurance through the Assigned Risk Plan were substantially strengthened by a decision of the Appellate Division of Superior Court. According to the commissioner's announcement at the time:

> "The decision means that anyone who walks into a broker's office looking for insurance, fills out an application and makes an appropriate deposit on the premium is fully insured. Even if the broker tears up the application and pockets the money, the assigned risk plan is responsible for providing the coverage retroactively through assignment to a member company as soon as the default is discovered."

The assigned risk plan is formally known as the New Jersey Automobile Insurance Plan. It is an industry-run mechanism which provides insurance to automobile owners who cannot obtain it on the regular market. The NJAIP receives applications from brokers and assigns them to the companies doing business in the state. The companies, which receive assigned risk business in proportion to the amount of voluntary business they write, are individually responsible for each assignment in the same way they are for voluntary policyholders.

The Appellate Division's decision affirmed the position taken by the Department in 1979 after learning that the NJAIP had sent a letter to clients of a defaulting broker informing them they had no insurance and advising them to make new applications with an agent or broker.

In a sharply worded telegram to the NJAIP, the Commissioner noted that the AIP's own rules specifically state that a failure on the part of a broker "to properly perform under the provisions of this section" shall not "prejudice the rights of an applicant."

The NJAIP refused to provide the coverage and took the matter to court. The unanimous opinion of the three-judge Appellate Division said that an applicant for insurance who makes the proper application and premium payment "is covered by insurance and the producer of record (the broker) is liable for the failure to remit the premium due."

The insurance company is still entitled to its premium, but it must collect it from the producer of record. The opinion added, Thus, liability rests on the person responsible for the non-compliance, not on the innocent applicant.............. To the extent there is any ambiguity in documents relating to insurance we must resolve the ambiguity in favor of the applicant and against the Plan.

> . . . We discern no intent . . . . (in the AIP's rules) to deprive an applicant who has made a premium deposit to a producer of record of coverage because of the failure of the producer to forward either the premium or the application to the Plan. Indeed, a contrary intent is clearly evident.

Culminating a more than two-year-long study, which included an extended public hearing, the commissioner on April 9 ordered a comprehensive revision of the driving classification and territorial rating systems used by the auto insurance companies in the computation of rates. The commissioner ordered the companies to eliminate age, sex, marital status and scholastic standing from the classification system, substituting more relevant factors such as mileage, use of the car, etc. He also directed the companies to re-design the 27 rating territories. In response the industry went to court, challenging the validity of the commissioner's order, and obtained an injunction to prevent it from going into effect until the court had decided the case on its merits. The case was still pending at year's end.

HOSPITAL MALPRACTICE INSURANCE

The commissioner approved the payment of premium refunds to 73 New Jersey Hospitals that obtained their malpractice insurance from the Health Care Insurance Exchange for the years 1976-78. The refund totaled $7.4 million.

The refund brought to $15.2 million the amount returned to hospitals since the HCIE was created in 1976 by the New Jersey Hospital Association in response to growing problems of availability and affordability in the private commercial market for malpractice insurance.

With this latest refund, those hospitals that joined the HCIE in 1976 have received more than 86 per cent of the premium they paid for professional and general liability coverage that year. The total return to date for 1977 was 56.4 per cent of premium and 16.4 per cent for 1978.

The HCIE, which is organized under New Jersey law as a non-profit reciprocal exchange and is similar to a mutual insurance company, uses a retrospective rating plan. Under that plan, the HCIE's loss and expense experience is under continuing review and only funds needed to cover losses and operating expenses are retained while the remainder of the premium, including total investment income, is refunded to the member hospitals.

BLUE CROSS

The Hospital Service Plan of New Jersey (Blue Cross) experienced severe financial difficulties and a rate increase of 15 per cent was approved as of June 1 for its 1.9 million individual and small group subscribers. An increase of 26.6 per cent, effective January 1, 1982, was later approved.

Aside from inflationary pressures on hospital costs, Blue Cross has been affected by uncertainties created by a recent law placing new obligations on it with respect to total hospital costs. Under the law Blue Cross is required to share for the first time in such hospital expenses as care of the indigent and bad debts. As a result, the traditional Blue Cross hospital payment differential, or discount, is being sharply reduced.

The differential for Blue Cross had been between 30 and 35 per cent of what other third party payers were charged. However, implementing the new law, the state's Hospital Rate-Setting Commission reduced the differential to 4.05 per cent, which is being introduced gradually as the state's hospitals shift from a per diem method of payment to a new method known as the Diagnosis-Related-Group (DRG) procedure. Subsequently, the differential was increased to 6.13 per cent.

In approving the 26.6 per cent increase, the commissioner noted that, despite the 15 per cent increase of June 1, Blue Cross experienced a $3 million monthly deficit in the June-through-October period and its surplus was projected to be in a deficit position by the end of the year. The Plan's surplus at the beginning of 1981 was $52 million.

SURCHARGE ELIMINATED

The one-half of one per cent surcharge that had been in effect on property-liability policies the last six years was eliminated, as of August 1.

The surcharge on auto, homeowners, commercial and other lines of insurance was imposed to provide funds for the New Jersey Property-Liability Insurance Guaranty Association, which gives protection to policyholders and claimants of insolvent insurance companies. The association, which comprises all the property-liability insurers doing business in the state, was created by the Legislature in 1974. The Legislature also authorized a surcharge to fund the association. The surcharge was discontinued because sufficient funds were now available to the Guaranty Association to meet its expected liabilities.

As of December 31, 1980, the surcharge had generated a total of $56.6 million, of which $42.9 million had been paid in claims and expenses.

TITLE INSURANCE CHANGES

Rate increases and manual changes for use by the Title Insurance Industry in New Jersey were approved, effective August 20.

The new rates reflected an overall average increase of approximately 18.3%, necessitated by both the soaring prices of homes and the costs of conducting business and a substantial drop in revenues caused by a stagnant real estate market. Title insurance rates had been unchanged for more than 5 years.

Rate manual changes were also approved to open title insurance required by the State of New Jersey and charitable institutions to competitive bidding.

In addition, endorsements were approved for renegotiable and variable interest rate mortgages to encourage lending institutions to lend money for residential properties more freely.

WORKER'S COMPENSATION

The Department's Compensation Rating and Inspection Bureau developed a manual of rates for 1982 under which Worker's Compensation insurance benefits will go up and the rates come down.

This unlikely phenomenon was the result of the companies' favorable loss experience for 1980, on which the 1982 rates will be based, reflecting many social, economic and administrative factors, including the preliminary impact of the reformed Worker's Compensation Act that took effect January 1, 1980.

The rate decrease for 1982 will be an average 5.9 per cent which will amount to a saving of approximately $48 million. The 5.9 per cent decrease is an average and the actual effect on each employer will vary, since rates are calculated for approximately 600 job classifications, depending on the experience of each.

Benefits will increase because they are a percentage of the average weekly wage, which the Department of Labor & Industry determined to have been $289.36 in 1980. The weekly minimum benefit for death, permanent total or temporary total disability will rise to $58 which is 20 per cent of the average weekly wage and the maximum benefit to $217 which is 75 per cent of the average weekly wage. The previous range was $53 to $199.

In addition, the schedule for permanent partial disability was revised to replace fixed dollar payments (currently $47 to $199) with the percentage formula based on the average weekly wage and these amounts also will increase to $58 and $217.

NEW REGULATIONS

A departmental regulation was adopted to implement a recent law authorizing the sale of legal services insurance.

This new form of insurance provides coverage for expenses incurred in connection with certain legal services in much the same way that health insurers provide coverage for expenses in connection with medical and hospital treatment. Legal services insurance, like health insurance, may be sold on an individual or group basis.

The regulation provides for a system of prior approval of the rating system for legal insurance, which means that the commissioner must approve rates before they can be put into effect.

A comprehensive regulation banning unfair practices by insurance companies in settlement of claims was adopted.

The Unfair Claims Settlement Practices Regulation, which became operative January 15, 1982, will apply to personal lines of insurance (health, homeowners, auto and life) as well as many commercial contracts. Most provisions also will apply to third-party (liability) claimants as well as to policyholders making claims under their own policies.

The regulation will prohibit a number of specific practices that the Insurance Department has found to be clearly unfair and will also improve communication between insurance companies and claimants.

The regulation is intended to provide balancing safeguards for claimants so that they can stand on a more equal footing in making a claim. It will also benefit the insurance industry, because each company will know that its competitors are being held to the same standards in settling claims.

It specifically prohibits certain unfair and deceptive practices by requiring that:

- An insurer must disclose all the benefits for which a policyholder may be eligible;
- An insurer must explain to a claimant what proof or information is required to settle the claim;
- An insurer may not withold payment on elements of a claim that are not in dispute because other elements of the claim remain in dispute;
- An insurer must inform auto insurance claimants of any right they may have to compensation for substitute transportation, such as a rented car to take the place of a damaged vehicle;
- Once another at-fault driver's insurance company has determined it is liable for an automobile damage claim, it must use the same procedures for prompt appraisal and settlement of the loss that it would apply to a claim involving its own policyholder.

The regulation also sets specific time limits for settlement of claims:

- An insurer must acknowledge all claims and begin its investigation within 10 working day of receiving notification of the claim;

- Claims submitted by policyholders to their own companies must be settled within 30 working days after the insurer receives notice or proof of the claim. Claims made against another person's company must be settled within 45 days after the company received notice of a property claim or within 90 days after notice of a bodily injury claim;
- If a company cannot settle a claim within the time set by the regulation, it must explain the reason for the delay in writing and provide a toll free or collect telephone line or a telephone number within the claimant's area code for the use of the claimant;
- If a company intends to inspect damaged property, it must do so within 10 working days of receiving notification of a claim and must give the claimant a copy of the damage estimate before beginning negotiations;
- Insurers are also required to inform a claimant more fully about progress in settling a claim and answer his queries promptly;
- Companies must respond to communications from claimants within 10 working days;
- An insurer must conduct claims correspondence in language that is understandable and easy to read;
- A company must explain in writing why a claim is denied or compromised;
- When a claim is paid, the company must in most cases explain how the benefit payment was calculated.

Departmental regulations establishing minimum standards for individual health insurance policies became fully effective August 11. Companies with policy forms not in compliance with the regulations were not permitted to sell them thereafter.

The rule concerning policy forms completes the regulatory framework for individual health policies. Other regulations affecting sales solicitation and rate filings have been in effect since October, 1980.

The regulations implement a law that was adopted in 1979 and are the culmination of more than two years of effort by the Department of Insurance to promulgate them, revise them after a public hearing and oversight by the Legislature and then analyze and reject or approve several thousand policy forms filed by the companies seeking compliance.

Regulations that would improve the ability of life insurance policy holders to make informed choices when they are contemplating replacement of their existing policies were adopted.

The regulations make sure that policyholders are given the proper information for making cost comparisons and eliminate misleading sales tactics.

The regulations were adopted by the Department of Insurance in response to problems posed by life insurance replacement and particularly by the development of a type of insurance called "partial endowment term insurance," an important element of which is an additional first year premium that is often referred to as a deposit. One regulation forbids the use of the word "deposit," or similar term, since it is the Insurance Department's position that the additional first year premium is not a deposit that produces amounts subject to withdrawal during the term of the policy but is rather a payment to the company to cover its selling expenses including commissions.

The other regulation is the model for life insurance replacement prepared by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

Representatives of companies and agents marketing traditional cash value policies indicated to the Department that this regulation would enhance their opportunities to make correct information available about a consumer's existing policy and thereby promote a better choice by the consumer between an existing and a proposed replacement policy. However, the department added a provision to the NAIC model that, for the first time anywhere in the country, requires under certain circumstances a company whose policy is being replaced to provide comparative cost information to the policyholder after being notified of the impending replacement by the agent for the replacing company.

The regulations reflect the department's belief that partial endowment term insurance should not be subject to unique regulatory treatment but should be included within the scope of life insurance regulation generally.

OTHER MATTERS

Beginning in January 1982, a new system for testing applicants for licensing as insurance agents, brokers and solicitors will be put into effect.

The Department of Insurance joined the Multistate Insurance Licensing Program which is sponsored by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and under which the insurance license Examinations are administered by the Center of Occupational and Professional Assessment, a division of the Educational Testing Service of Princeton. Currently, department personnel develop, score and administer the tests which are given two times a month at locations in Newark, Mt. Laurel and Trenton. New Jersey issues about 10,000 licenses a year.

Turning the testing function over to ETS will not diminish the Insurance Department's statutory responsibilities for determining qualifications of agents, brokers and solicitors, but ETS's experience and resources will continue to assure an efficient and professional operation, while freeing Department personnel for the many other duties connected with issuing or renewing more than 100,000 licenses every year.

Among the advantages of the new program will be the introduction of "walk-in" testing and the use of the additional testing sites.

The walk-in provision will permit license applicants to report to any test center on the test date, register and take the examination on the same day.

The five-year-old MILP program provides multiple-choice tests designed to measure the entry-level knowledge, skills and abilities required of insurance agents, brokers and solicitors.

Candidates are tested in the insurance specialties of life and/or health and property/casualty (including health) insurance. ETS will also give special examinations prepared by the Department of Insurance for licensing in these areas: contracts on a variable basis, bonds, surplus lines, mortgage guaranty, automobile physical damage, title and credit insurance. The first part of each examination includes 50 questions about general insurance practices and product knowledge that apply across the nation in each specialty. The second part includes 25 to 40 questions covering the laws, rules and regulations unique to each state in each specialty.

The financially troubled Foundation Life Insurance Company of Chatham was placed in rehabilitation under control of the Department.

The financial condition of Foundation Life had been closely monitored by the Department because of a steep drop in its surplus, from about $2 million to $900,000 early in 1981. It had reached a point at which it did not have sufficient liquid assets to meet its current liabilities.

Foundation Life, which has been in business since 1965, is licensed to write insurance in 29 states. In 1980 it had premium income of $11.4 million. About half of its business was done in New Jersey, where it had about 80,000 life insurance policyholders.
